PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

PEACE AT THE END OF THE FIGHT

Some battles never make the news. A conflict at home, a strained friendship, a long argument with yourself that keeps going at night. By evening you may be tired of fighting and unsure how it will ever end.

Psalm 46 says of God, "He makes wars cease to the end of the earth. He breaks the bow, and shatters the spear." The weapons are broken by His hand, not just laid down for a temporary truce. Right after that comes the call, "Be still, and know that I am God." Peace begins when the fighting is handed over to the one who can actually end it.

Tonight, name the battle you're in, whether it's with someone else or inside yourself. Tell God you're putting your weapons down: the sharp words, the replayed arguments. Then ask Him for the peace you can't make on your own.

He makes wars cease to the end of the earth.

PSALM 46:9 (WEB)

A PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord, I'm tired of this fight and I can't end it myself. Break what needs breaking, and make this war cease while I rest.
