PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

MERCY YOU'VE ALREADY BEEN SHOWN

Some days it takes very little to set you off. Something spilled, a reply that came late, the same mistake someone keeps making. The sharp word is already on your tongue, and part of you feels you have every right to say it.

Jesus said, "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." That mercy starts with God. It isn't a reward for being good enough; it's the mercy He has shown you again and again, in everything you've broken along the way. Being merciful is simply passing on what you've already been given. And every time you pass it on, you find there's more of it waiting for you.

PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

So today, when someone gets it wrong in front of you, wait one breath before you speak. Then let the first word out of your mouth be a gentle one.

A PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord, You've knelt down over everything I've broken and shown me mercy. When someone breaks something today, teach my hands to do what Yours did.
