PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

DON'T BE AFRAID.
HE KNOWS YOUR NAME.

Lord, it's late, and the dark still gets to me. The garage is empty and the house will be quiet, and I keep walking faster than I need to. But You've called me by name, and I'm Yours. You paid to bring me home. Go ahead of me, row by row, all the way to my door, and let me sleep.

"Don't be afraid, for I have redeemed you. I have called you by your name. You are mine."

CALLED BY NAME IN THE DARK

Late at night, walking to the car or climbing the stairs to a quiet home, fear can creep in sideways. Not always about anything you could name. Just the dark, the empty space, the sense of being on your own.

Through Isaiah, God speaks to His people, the ones He made and bought back: “Don’t be afraid, for I have redeemed you. I have called you by your name. You are mine.” (Isaiah 43:1). He doesn't call you "someone" or "one of many". He knows your name, and He has already paid to bring you home. The dark doesn't get to decide who you belong to.

Tonight, when you switch off the last light, say your own name to Him, out loud or under your breath, and add three words: I'm Yours. Then let the dark be dark.

A PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord, the lights are coming on ahead of me, one row at a time. You know my name. Lead me home and let me rest.
