
PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY
SOMEONE GOT TO YOU?
HE NEVER SHUT YOU OUT.
Lord, as You forgave me,
help me keep this door open.
"...forgiving each other, if any man has a complaint against any; even as Christ forgave you, so you also do."

PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

HOLD THE DOOR

By midday it has usually happened. A comment in the meeting, a message with an edge, someone taking credit or dropping their work on your desk. And it keeps replaying, a little sharper each time, while you try to get on with the afternoon.

Paul wrote to people who had to live and work side by side, and he didn't pretend complaints wouldn't come. He told them to bear with one another and to forgive, “even as Christ forgave you, so you also do” (Colossians 3:13). The measure isn't whether they deserve it. It's how far He went for you, and He has never shut the door on you.

This afternoon, each time the moment replays, turn it into a short prayer for that person, even just their name and “bless them.” Let the door stay open a little longer than you feel like holding it.

A PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord, what they said keeps replaying in my head. Each time it does, put Your hand in the gap. Teach me to forgive as You forgave.
