PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

A CLEAN START, EVERY TIME

Some mornings yesterday wakes up before you do. The sharp word, the thing left undone, the moment you'd take back. It follows you to the sink and the kettle and asks how you plan to face today.

John wrote this verse to people who already knew God, and he counted himself in: if we confess. To confess is to say about it what God says, with no polish and no excuses. And His answer isn't a mood He might be in. He is faithful, so He forgives every time you come. He is righteous, because Jesus has already given His life for it, so forgiving you isn't Him looking away.

PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

Before you head out this morning, name yesterday's one thing to Him in a single honest sentence. Then step out the door as someone who has been forgiven, because you have.

1 JOHN 1:9 (WEB)

A PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord, yesterday is still replaying in my head. Forgive it the way the tide clears the sand, and walk with me as I go.
