PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

DRIFTED TODAY?
HE DIDN'T.

Lord, I drifted today. I let a hundred small things carry me off, and I hardly thought of You. You never let go of the line. Pull me back in, and remain.

"Remain in me, and I in you."

THE LINE STILL HOLDS

Some days pull you a hundred ways at once. Messages, noise, small worries, an hour that disappeared into your phone. You reach the evening and realise you hardly thought of God at all, and that can leave you feeling far away, as if you wandered off and the door quietly shut behind you.

Jesus' invitation here has two halves. Remain in Him, yes. But also: He remains in you. Your attention drifted today; His didn't. Nothing you scrolled past untied what He holds. Remaining isn't a test you pass or fail by nine o'clock. It's coming back to someone who never left.

Before you put the day away, write two lines. One: where today you felt close to Him. Two: where you felt far. Don't grade either one. Hand both to Him, and let Him pull you back in.
