PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

YOU MADE IT TO MORNING.

JOY IS COMING IN.

Lord, You brought me to the morning. Let me sing.

"For his anger is but for a moment. His favour is for a lifetime. Weeping may stay for the night, but joy comes in the morning."

PSALMS 30:5 WEB

prayertocarry.com

PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

JOY COMES SINGING

Some mornings you wake up still carrying the night. Maybe you slept badly, or not at all, or you cried before you fell asleep. You made it to morning, and that took more than anyone saw.

David wrote Psalm 30 after God pulled him back from the edge, and he knew nights like that. The Hebrew word for joy here is a ringing cry, the kind of sound that breaks a silence. He doesn't pretend the weeping wasn't real. He calls it a guest for the night, not the owner of the house. God's favour is what lasts, and joy is what's coming.

So give it a way in this morning. On your way out the door, play one song of praise, or hum it under your breath, even if your voice is thin. You don't have to feel it first. Sometimes the song comes before the joy and holds the door open for it.

PRAYER TO CARRY TODAY

SCRIPTURE

For his anger is but for a moment. His favour is for a lifetime. Weeping may stay for the night, but joy comes in the morning.

PSALMS 30:5 (WEB)

A PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord, I'm carrying last night into this morning. Put a new song in my mouth and lift my voice to You. Let Your joy come and stay.